

FIRE AT RIVERSIDE PARK

THE NEW CHEMICAL DOES QUICK AND EFFICIENT SERVICE.

Used for the First Time It Promptly Extinguishes Flames in a Horse Building—A Tree in the Grove Also on Fire—Work of Incendiaries.

The firemen on Monday evening had an opportunity to use the new chemical for the first time, and it met every expectation, doing good work quickly. About 8:15 a still alarm came from Riverside Park that there was a fire in one of the buildings owned by the Onondaga County Agricultural Society, and located on the Park. Fire Chief Briggs quickly dispatched No. 1 hose and chemical wagon to the park. The flames were in a horse building, east of the grand stand. It is a good two-story building from No. 1 engine house to the west of the fair, and by the time the firemen reached there the flames had gained considerable headway. However, by turning on the chemical stream and chopping off the end of the building the fire was soon brought under control. Several of the members of No. 1 hose company accompanied the apparatus and assisted in extinguishing the fire.

As the building has not been in use since the fair in September, the fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. One of the trees in the grove was also burning. The tree is located too far from the building to have taken fire from that source, and must have been set on fire. If the object of setting these fires was to destroy the property of the Onondaga County Agricultural Society it failed through the prompt and efficient work of the firemen.

The new chemical tank which did such good work, was bought by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners of the American-LaFrance Steam Fire Engine Company, and has just been installed. It has a capacity of thirty-five gallons, and at the fire on Monday night showed a pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch, which is considered very large. As there are no hydrants which would have been available for the fire, the chemical came most opportunely into play.

SERMONS FOR DEBT.

What a Utica Grocer Realized on a Journey.

Utica dispatch to the New York World: The Rev. Starr K. Smith, formerly pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, resigned some time ago. After his withdrawal he was sued by a local grocer, who won his case and took the preacher's desk in his key. That was all he could get. Today he opened the desk in the hope of finding something to turn into money. The drawers were filled with sermons and sermon-making material. There were fifty completed addresses in book form.

"I don't know how much ready-made sermons would bring," remarked the grocer. "Probably not much, because people can go to church and get one hot from the preacher by dropping a penny on the plate."

Among the papers were a number of certificates of marriages performed in Buffalo ten years ago and never recorded. The grocer said he would send them to Buffalo.

"If these people were married secretly, it's time the secret leaked out," he said.

THE BARGE CANAL IN ROMÉ

ROUTE SAID TO HAVE BEEN PRACTICALLY DECIDED UPON.

Canal Advisory Board Favors the Line Announced by Sentinel Last May as the Probable Course—Engineers to Inspect Route Thursday.

In the forefront of May last a force of surveyors under the direction of Resident Engineer Emile Low of this city ran a line for the proposed barge canal through the city of Rome, which the Sentinel announced as the probable course that would be chosen. The route surveyed crosses E. Dominick street east of St. Peter's Cemetery, and keeping north of the Rome Metal Co.'s plant, enters the Mohawk River, following the river to a point north of the Rome Soap Works, where it cuts across the head of the island there and intersects and crosses Dominick street diagonally just west of the corner of Dominick and River streets. After the line strikes the Black River Canal diagonally near the Dominick street bridge it continues through the property recently owned by W. J. Cramond and the site of the Mansion house into the Erie Canal and thence to Fort Bull.

This line does not vary much from the original alternative line surveyed except that it crosses Dominick street to the east of St. Peter's Cemetery instead of between it and the Rome Locomotive and Machine Works. Then again the original line ran south of where the Metal Works now stands and to avoid that plant and crossing the railroad spur the present line was run out.

That this route is receiving favorable consideration is shown by an Albany dispatch which states that one of the most important problems in connection with the proposed barge canal, involving the location of the waterway in this city, has been practically solved by the canal advisory board of engineers. In speaking of the contemplated route the dispatch refers to the fact that the location will cause only the removal of a few buildings near Stanwix Hall. The new route will be inspected by the engineers on Thursday.

A number of different surveys have been made in Rome, including one that would have taken the New York Central Railroad bed, and caused the removal of its tracks a considerable distance to the south. Another route was to keep the canal to the south of the railroad, but that did not meet with much favor, any more than did the proposition to come up the Mohawk River to a point about opposite Cottage street and then following Fox street through the central part of the city.

THE SECOND STREET MURDER

CORONER'S INQUEST INTO SOPHIA DANEY'S DEATH.

The Young Woman Who Was Stabbed On Sunday Night—Witnesses Tell of the Gathering at the Hotel, the Whisky Drinking and the Murder.

At the City Hall at 2 p. m. today Coroner Hubbard began a hearing in the death of Sophia Daney, who was murdered at 105 Second street on Sunday evening. Assistant District Attorney Shedd was present in the interest of the people and questioned the witnesses.

Mrs. Webb, wife of George Gurnsey, at whose house the murder took place, testified that she was in bed at the time of the murder. Went up stairs afterward and found the body on the floor. Sophia was her niece. Witness identified the body.

James Danaher, 11 board at John Byrnes's boarding house. Have lived in Rome for five or six weeks. Was at Gurnsey's house on Second street on Sunday. Went there at 8 o'clock. Was invited into the house and was asked to buy something to drink. Bought a pint of whisky. An Italian then came in and bought another bottle of whisky. Several bottles were bought. Three women and two Italian boys were present at the time of the stabbing. Do not know their names.

At the time the stabbing took place I was outside. When I returned I saw the Italians and others in a scuffle. Then Sophia ran up stairs and said she was stabbed. The tall Italian was throwing his hands in the air. The murdered woman was standing near the door. There were five or six quarels that night. Sophia called him a vile name. Did not see any knives used. Took a big butcher knife from Sophia early in the evening.

At this point the inquest was suspended. The physicians will be sworn later.

Colangelo Arraigned. In City Court this afternoon James Colangelo was arraigned on a warrant sworn out by Chief Barry charging murder in the first degree. D. P. Seear represented the defendant and District Attorney Willis appeared for the people.

Mr. Seear—The coroner informs me that he has not sworn the physicians who made the autopsy. It will depend upon what was found by the physicians whether the defendant will demand an examination or not. If an adjournment can not be had I ask for an immediate examination.

The case was set down for Thursday at 10 a. m. Colangelo was committed to jail.

The Indian Murder. The remains of Sophia Daney were taken to Canastota today by her parents, where they will be buried.

In connection with the murder of Sophia Daney it has been stated that this is the second murder that has been committed at the Webb home. Several years ago, when the Webb family lived near Morrisville station, an Indian who was known as "George" was stabbed by a man named Corey. After lingering for some time he died and Corey was sent to Auburn prison.

Prof. H. W. Harris has received the following entries for this year's contest:

Davis Essay Prize Competition—Winifred Lillibridge, Florence Sweeney, Ruth Hopkins, James William Wilson, Elinor E. Evans, Carrie Pitcher, James Wallace, Ruth Ellis, Lena MacFarland, Emily Dersey.
