FESTIVAL OF SUCCOTH BEGINS HERE FRIDAY

Jews of City to Observe Event at Services

WILL CONTINUE FOR WEEK

Marks the Close of Cycle of Holy Days

Beginning Friday at 5.30 in orthodox synagogs, and 3 in reformed synagogs, the Festival of Succoth, or Tabernacles, will be celebrated among the Jewish people of the city. This period of festivity lasts a week.

In orthodox synagogs, services will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are observed as half holidays, and certain work is permitted. Regular services are held on these days. On Thursday, at sundown, and lasting until Saturday at sundown, is observed the Hoshano Rabba. Services will be at 5:30 each night and 8:30 each morning. Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Sunday afternoon at 3, Rabbi Abraham Shapiro will preach a special sermon in the House of Israel.

In Tempile Beth-El, services will begin at 8 Friday night. Rabbi Iridor Hoffman will preach a special sermon, "Sanity in Religion," and a special program will be sung by the choir. In the basement of the church a booth has been erected, trimmed with palms and flowers, at which will take place the ceremony of the blessing of the wine or Kiddush, after the regular services.

Saturday services will be at 8:30 and 10 a. m., and 3 p. m., and those in the evening will be in the nature of memorial services. Sunday services will be at the same hour.

Old Traditions

During this week every Jew who observes the old tradition will take his meals in little tabernacles or booths that have been erected in the yard. This is in accordance with the command: "Ye shall dwell in booths seven days, that your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths when I brought them out of the land of Egypt." (Lev. 23-42). The festival is therefore reminiscent of the wilderness and of the divine watchfulness over Israel during the perilous period of its wanderings.

It has also the significance of a harvest festival, for it was celebrated in ancient time in the season of the ingathering of the produce of the field. It is therefore also called "the Feast of Ingathering." At this time the Jew was bidden to take on the first day of the festival "the fruit of the goodly tree, branches of palm trees, and boughs of thick-leaved trees, and willows of the brook; and ye shall rejoice before the Lord, your God, seven days." (Lev. 23-40). The traditional Jew makes a blessing over these offerings every day during the festival while in many modern synagogs the first night of the festival has been turned into a harvest or thanksgiving service, when, under a symbolic representation of a booth over the pulpit, the children of the congregation bring offerings of field and forest to the accompaniment of a ritual of song and praise.

The last day of the festival is called Simhath Torah—the Rejoicing Over the Law. It marks the conclusion of the reading of the Pentatuch, which, in separate portions on every Sabbath, is read in its entirety every year. To the Jew the Torah or the law is eternal. It has no beginning and no end. Therefore no sooner are the last verses of the last book of the Pentatuch read in the synagog than immediately thereafter the first verses of the first book are also read, making the process without beginning or end from year to year and from century to century. At this time there is great rejoicing in the orthodox synagog. There are many processions around the pulpit, participated in by the entire congregation, and preceded by the Scroll of the Law, and accompanied by the chanting of hymns and hosannas.

Thus closes the cycle of holy days extending over a period of two weeks, beginning with a day of rate, The solemn Rosh Hashanah or New Year, and ending with a day of rejoicing, the Rejoicing Over the Law.

DAVID E. OWENS, 57, FORMER FIREMAN, DIES

Heart Disease Brings Sudden End to Veteran's Life

INJURY CAUSE OF RETIREMENT

Native of City Had Distinguished Himself in Service

David E. Owens, 57, 1443 Sunset Avenue, died Wednesday morning at his home following a sudden attack of heart disease.

David E. Owens was born in this city November 15, 1867. He learned the trade of painter with his father, John D. Owens, and worked for him several years. But he had always had a desire to be a fireman and May 1, 1886, he was appointed a call man in the paid fire department. A call man was located in the engine house at night and pursued his regular occupation during the day, but he responded to fire alarms and was paid a nominal sum per year.

Mr. Owens was attached to No. 1 truck in Cooper Street and two years later he was made a permanent member, devoting his whole time to the work. A new aerial truck was purchased and Mr. Owens and John Rubenstein were placed in charge. In time Mr. Owens was transferred to No. 1 Company in Park Avenue and made lieutenant. A year or two later he was returned to the Cooper Street house, where he remained until the Central Fire Station was built. He served in this company until 1913, when, in going to a fire at St. Joseph's Infant Home, the truck collided with a train on the D. L. & W. Railroad and four firemen were injured. The injuries of Mr. Owens were more serious than those of the others and he was incapacitated from further service.

When he entered the service Mr. Owens was one of the youngest of the firemen, and he was very energetic and performed his work with enthusiasm. The big oil cloth factory was located opposite the truck house, and because of its height and size this building was used in instructing the firemen in climbing and reaching the upper stories of a building.

On several occasions Mr. Owens distinguished himself by carrying men and women from the upper stories of buildings when descent by stairways was impossible. He was slight of build, but strong and wiry, and he had carried from burning buildings to safety men who were of greater weight than himself. He had an excellent record for saving lives. During his long term of service he had seen many improvements in the way of apparatus and fire fighting methods. He served on the first house watch in No. 1 truck house, and also on the first house watch in the Central Fire Station.

Since Mr. Owens retired from the city service he had spent his summers with his daughter, Mrs. A. M. Butler, Oneida, in the Lake Shore Hotel, Oneida Lake. For the last eight years he had been employed through the winters at the Bossert Corporation.

His marriage to Miss Lucy Haganour took place about 23 years ago. She survives with a daughter, Mrs. Butler; a stepson, Dr. Henry C. Haganour, Akron, Ohio; two grandchildren, Eloise Haganour, Akron, and Stephen Butler, Oneida; and a nephew, John P. Owens, Utica.

School Teachers Guests of Temperance Union at Big Informal Reception

Ninde Memorial Chapel Is Scene of Enjoyable Get-together

STATE OFFICER IS HEARD IN ADDRESS

Mrs. Clara Jacobs Gives Statistics of Interest to Gathering

Rome, Sept. 30—The reception given the W. C. T. U. to the school teachers of the city at Ninde Memorial Chapel of the First M. E. Church Wednesday night was a very pleasant occasion. As each entered the hall Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Lawton "tagged" them, pinning on them a label bearing the name of the guest so that all might become acquainted without the formality of an introduction. Mrs. F. S. Lee, president of the W. C. T. U., was the chairman of the meeting and the community singing was led by Mrs. H. G. Hunt. Prayer was offered by the pastor of the church, Rev. F. A. Miller, D. D., followed by a piano solo by Mrs. Ellis Aldridge, "Venitenne," by Godard. Mrs. Arthur Hollis was the accompanist for the community singing. "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" was played by Miss Alice Ely, with variations, and it was an enjoyable number.

Mrs. Lee extended the welcome to the teachers and told them that there were two very strong factors in the life of the boys and girls, the home and the school, and that they were closely related, one depending a great deal upon the other, and she assured the teachers that the W. C. T. U. would cooperate with them in every way possible. She spoke of the department of scientific temperance instruction in the schools, getting it in the hearts and minds of the boys and girls, the effects of alcohol upon the body and mind.

Mrs. Lee announced that the State W. C. T. U. convention was to be held in this church, October 14-19 inclusive, and extended an invitation to the teachers to be at as many sessions of the convention as they could. She introduced as the speaker Mrs. Clara Jacobs of Rochester, superintendent of scientific instruction.

Mrs. Jacobs said she considered it a very important factor in the school life of the boys and girls to teach them health rules, and that one of the greatest of these rules in connection with health is scientific temperance instruction which is authorized by the school laws of this state. She said the United States was the first country to adopt public school education 150 years ago, and that trade schools were first adopted by Scotland, England and Germany. One billion dollars are now expended here for education by the government, the per capita for the high school student being $63, and for the college student $100. The first law for scientific temperance instruction was adopted by the state of Vermont, and by this state in 1884. She said it was the W. C. T. U. that first got this law upon the statute books for his instruction in the public schools, and since the adoption of the XVIII Amendment the liquor interests are now spreading their propaganda to have it stopped and to have the pager relating thereto stricken from the text books.

Mrs. Jacobs said the first cigar in this country was made by a woman in 1799, and that last year the statistics show that women smoked more than 7,000,000 cigarets. When voting this fall, she advised the teachers not to take everything offered in the line of candidates, but to look them all over thoroughly. The fathers and mothers of the school children and the teachers should cooperate to a marked degree and should confer with each other as to the children, and the teacher should know something of the home life of the scholars.

After the address all adjourned to the dining room where cake and cream were served.

Principal W. L. Newton of the High School and Mrs. Newton were present, the latter being the local superintendent of scientific temperance instruction. NUMBERING OF STORES TO BE URGED BY CHAMBER

Rome, Sept. 30—The Chamber of Commerce committee on street signs and numbers at a meeting Wednesday appointed committees to interview the downtown business places and request the proper numbers be placed on their places of business.

When this has been accomplished then the numbers in the residential sections will be taken up. There is hardly anything more needed than this in the city.

INTEREST AROUSED IN ROAD ATOP DELTA DAM

Chamber Committee Working to Bring About Step

Rome, Sept. 30—The Delta Dam committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which H. T. Dyett is chairman, is interesting the members on a proposition to construct a roadway across the top of the Delta Dam which is reported to be feasible. This was proposed at the time the dam was built but was not carried through.

A roadway across the top of the dam would materially shorten the distance and at the same time avoid two very steep hills and two dangerous curves and the crossing of a very narrow bridge where there have been numerous accidents.

CONFESSES THEFT AND DESERTION FROM ARMY

Rome, Sept. 30—Stanley H. Jolley, 28, was arrested at his rooming house Wednesday by Officer Wright on the charge of petit larceny, it being alleged he had taken $55 belonging to another occupant of the house. He admitted taking the money which was returned to the owner.

Officer Wright noticed something on the coat collar of Jolley, signifying that he had been connected with some branch of the army and he confessed to being a deserter from the United States Army. He enlisted from Buffalo January 27 last, and was assigned to duty at Watervliet and deserted from that place August 1. He was born in Seneca Falls and his parents live in Santa Barbara, Cal. He was given a sentence of 30 days in jail. He will be returned to the army.
